

Randy Walker
Artist Statement

I've contributed two pieces to this group show representing my continuing journey using different approaches to art. Some proven like the charcoal piece, Last Unicorn, and the not so familiar like, Tree Circle, using wood cut and hand printed on rice paper. Time is their story. It changes and erodes memories, myths—it measures a lifetime of events succeeding one another.

Last Unicorn

Waiting for a familiar voice. There is only silence. There will be no answer. Forgotten by time—he is the last, all vanished by nonbelievers, no longer needed beyond pages in a book or pixelated screen navigating pages with the flick of a finger.

Tree Circle

The living clocks stand quietly and measure time, ring by ring by ring.